

I am on the road for about 3 hours a day, and my xm helps me get through the day, especially the traffic and weather, because I then know exactly what my forecast is and whether or not to take certain roads, not to mention the awesome music channels. FCC, do me a favor and go figure out a way to keep Janet's boob in her top and stop picking on XM. I feel you have no right to, especially since I am paying for the service.
